The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered in ink, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischievous and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time, looking very dejected and forlorn. He tells his aunt about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly asks, “What do you think you would do if you were not a schoolboy?” Tom says, “I’d be a sailor on a whaler. I’d be a captain and have all the fun! I’d be a skipper of a ship and show the world how to behave!” Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom goes out of the house to play. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom meets the new arrival, Huckleberry Finn. Huckleberry is an innocent and generous, and eventually becomes Tom’s new friend. Tom has sworn the butler himself to dispose his property.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whiten his face. He passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitening as usual for a “white alley,” a kind of suitcase. He almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his labor.
