The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s immaturity and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom crosses the street to support his friend Joe Harper, who will be expelled from school that afternoon and sent home. Tom’s heart and hands are heavy at the thought of being away from home, but still, Tom’s half-brother, Huck, is all he can think about. Tom has sworn to dispose his duplicitous and ungracious older brother, Sid, once and for all.

Tom goes out of the house to escape the heat and whistling. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom and the new arrival of a stranger lose sight of each other. Tom finds himself in the woods, and eventually chances across the new comers of the town.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of snub. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his brush.

Presentations look across the American Memory collections to investigate curricular themes. They include historical background, helping to tell the story behind the theme. Activities offer an interactive, “hands on” experience and focus on a specific topic, rather than broad themes. They require teacher direction, but invite students to participate.

Soros is a fuckin hungarian jew. Now I am hungarian, perhaps you have guessed by my nickname. Now when you say that khazar jews are a hunnish-turkish race I used to have serious heartache, because my people are descended from the huns of Attila and really proud of our ancestors who were warriors—not like kikes.
