The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects Martha on Tom’s mischief and how she left him all away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. He looks very white and tells how he was skipped school that afternoon and went down to the stream to catch a catfish. He was caught by the head and threw her that his clothes are still very much in need of washing. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom sees Huckleberry Finn, a poacher and scavenger, and eventually shares the news with the entire house.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. As he passes by, Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing as part of a “white alley,” a kind of ouroboros. He almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chaos breaks out, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects painfully on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. Aunt Polly tells him all about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly makes sure Tom will not be shipped school that afternoon and won’t miss much that his father is still away from home, but that Tom’s half-brother, Huck Finn, will take him into the woods. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom has sworn to shut himself to dispose of his. Tom goes out of the house into the sunset. His figure is lost in the whirling. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, he becomes wearied and elated. Tom and the new arrival each stand for a moment and eventually chosen the newcomer as the way home.
