The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s naughtiness and how the little boy got away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime. His face is dirty, his clothes are disheveled, and he talks incoherently about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom that he will be skipped school that afternoon and must do extra work. Tom says he did not go to school, but that Tom’s half-brother, Huck, was there. Aunt Polly is satisfied, and Tom does not dare to tell her that he had an exciting adventure and eventually chased the newcomers all the way home.

When Tom returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get Jim to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “whee-alley,” a kind of marble. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.

The next day, Tom comes home at suppertime with a red mark on his cheek. His mother is angry, and Tom tells her about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Ikey is working on a quilt. Tom's mother asks if he was skipped school that afternoon and went elsewhere. Tom says, "I was skiped school that afternoon, and went elsewhere." Aunt Ikey looks at Tom's hand and shrugs her shoulders. Junie is still angry, but she is not Tom's half-brother. Tom's mother asks him to clean his shirt and go apologize to Mr. Mark. Tom has sworn the shirt himself to dispose his business.

Tom goes out of the house and goes to the street, which is barren and deserted. Tom and the new arrival on the block, a white collar, are watching and eventually chances the newcomer all the way home.
