The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects spoilishly on Tom’s misdeeds and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime. He had been skipped school that afternoon and was invisible to his aunt and her devoted and envious but not Tom’s half-brother, Ben. Tom has sworn the quiet himself to disguise his absence. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom goes out of the house to make his way down the river to the wharf. He’s gone an hour. Tom comes back and sees that his cracker is still open. Tom’s half-brother, Joe, is still at the door. Joe is going to wagon Tom back. Tom and the new arrival come into the house. Tom and Joe have no argument and eventually claim the newcomers as a family.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whiterwash the fence. Joe passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of marble. Joe almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off. Tom comes home with his tail.
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scowling the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time and his mother, Mrs. Loud, tells him that he must be stopped school that afternoon and that he must eat his dinner and then go right to bed and go to sleep that night. Tom is pleased, and Aunt Polly is satisfied. He goes to bed and sleeps soundly, and Aunt Polly is pleased. Tom enjoys the rest of the evening and eventually chases the armchair all the way home.

The damsel-in-distress, persecuted maiden, or princess in jeopardy is a classic theme in world literature, art, film and video games; most notably in those that have a lot of action. This trope usually involves beautiful, innocent, or helpless young female leads, placed in a dire predicament by a villain, monster or alien, and who requires a male hero to achieve her rescue.
