The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out dramatically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's escapades and how she let him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. His mother tells him that she's been talking with his teacher, Mr. Bechard, and that he's skipped school that afternoon and went swimming in the river. Tom's mother is shocked and heartbroken, but Aunt Polly is satisfied. Aunt Polly is pleased that Tom has spent the afternoon out of the house and away from mischief.

Tom and the new arrival outside the house are greeted with open arms. The new arrival is Tom's half-brother, Huck Finn. Tom's mother is overjoyed to have another male child in the house, and Tom is pleased to have a brother.

When Tom returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Sam, the Undertaker, passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of sandwich. Sam almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sorrowfully on Tom’s misconduct and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper, and Aunt Polly asks him how school went. Tom says he was not skipped school that afternoon and went everywhere with Joe, but he got into trouble. Aunt Polly is satisfied, but Tom’s half-brother, Huck, has warmed the shanty to disguise his absence.

Tom goes out of the house in the evening, whistling, while wandering the streets of St. Petersburg. He is now overcome and exhausted. Tom and the new arrival catch a ride and eventually cross the river and arrive at the house.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of usurious loan. Aunt Polly agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
Subjective well-being (SWB) is defined as 'a person's cognitive and affective evaluations of his or her life' (Diener, Lucas, & Oshi, 2002, p. 63).

What is Subjective Well-Being? Understanding and Measuring ...

Well-being is a central concept in positive psychology. Positive psychology is concerned with eudaimonia, "the good life", reflection about what holds the greatest value in life – the factors that contribute the most to a well-lived and fulfilling life. While not attempting a strict definition of the good life, positive psychologists agree that one must live a happy, engaged, and meaningful ...

Subjective well-being (SWB) is a self-reported measure of well-being, typically obtained by questionnaire. Ed Diener developed a tripartite model of subjective well-being in 1984, which describes how people experience the quality of their lives and includes both emotional reactions and cognitive judgments. It posits "three distinct but often related components of well-being: frequent positive ...
